

Planning Your Ministry to Students

Max Barnett

I. Introduction.

II. Wherever you are, do the very best you can.

A. Expose students to the best content.

B. Expose them to the best people.

III. One does a great disservice to students if everything a person asks him to do is free.

A. Planning ahead of time helps alleviate financial pressure.

B. Pray for help.

C. Ask students to give to missions.

IV. Ask students to think about their ministry.

A. Encourage them to live in the dorms especially those dorms where freshmen are.

B. Encourage them to be creative in Bible study.

V. Keep morale up.

A. Do fun activities.

B. Be aware of what is going on.

VI. Communication is important. Feedback is essential in staff meetings.

Application questions:

1. To what kind of subjects do college students need to be exposed?

---

---

2. Why is it doing a disservice to college students to avoid asking them to give money?

---

---

3. How can you get valuable feedback from students for your ministry? Explain.

---

---