

And the End Comes

Ray Stedman

I. Introduction.

A. Text: Isaiah.

B. The problem is not God it is man.

C. The problem of wickedness applies to all men—this is the depravity of man. (Romans)

II. If you come with a humble, repentant heart, you can get anything from God—but you must come with humility.

A. We must acknowledge that the problem is us.

B. God's response is quick when we do this.

III. The millennial blessings. (Isaiah 60)

IV. Jesus cites Isaiah in regards to the day of favor, but He does not cite judgment knowing that it will be delayed.

V. Isaiah promises spiritual blessings to the people of Israel.

VI. A picture of the Day of Judgment. (Isaiah 63, Revelation 14)

VII. If one wants to know God's Word, we must let the majesty of God be revealed by the Spirit of God. (I Corinthians 2)

VIII. God has always been available to Israel if they were only ready to turn to Him, as well as the Gentiles. (Isaiah 65-66)

IX. The final chapter is in association with the rebuilding of the temple, but the rebuilding of the temple is empty without heart worship.

A. The wonder is that a nation through the righteousness of Jesus will be born in a day.

B. Do we really know this wonderful God? As long as you are looking down, you cannot see something that is above you.

Application questions:

1. Why is humility so important to get a response from God?

---

---

2. How is God's plan and heart for Israel unveiled in the chapters of Isaiah?

---

---

3. What stood out to you about Isaiah's teaching of future blessings? Explain.

---

---